Is Fingerprinting the Gold Standard?

Many districts across the U.S. are mandated to use fingerprinting to screen employees and volunteers. But the truth about fingerprinting as a sole source is that it may be exposing your district to risk. Because we're committed to educating and advocating for better screening, we'd like to challenge school districts to compare fingerprinting to our professional grade screen.

Unfortunately, fingerprinting has many limitations including missing and incomplete records. Simply consider this fact: the FBI database has approximately 40 million criminal records; a commercial database has over 450 million! Want to learn more about the dangers of fingerprinting? Read our whitepaper, "The Illusion of the FBI Database."

Here's the challenge: we'll rescreen a sampling of your staff with a professional grade screen and let you compare the results to fingerprinting. You could be missing dozens of critical records—the only way to find out is by taking our free challenge. But act fast, because this is a limited time offer!
